6.5 Communication of the Outcome

The RRFO shall communicate the outcome of the assessment process to the reporting person.

If the reporting person believes that the report has not been handled effectively, they may submit the report to the National Transparency Authority (NTA), which serves as the external reporting channel, as described in Section 12 of this Policy.

The RRFO should also provide clear and easily accessible information regarding the procedures for submitting reports to the NTA and, where applicable, to public authorities, institutions, bodies, offices, or agencies of the European Union.

7. ANONYMOUS REPORTING

The Company encourages the submission of identified reports, as this facilitates internal investigations and enables a more effective assessment of the seriousness and credibility of reported concerns.

In all cases, the Company treats the identity of both the reporting person and the reported person with the utmost confidentiality, as further described in Section 8 of this Policy.

Nevertheless, anonymous reports may also be submitted, and the Company undertakes to handle such reports with the same level of seriousness and diligence as identified reports, making every reasonable effort to investigate and substantiate the reported allegations.

8. CONFIDENTIALITY & PROTECTION OF REPORTING AND REPORTED PERSONS

The Company provides full protection to individuals who report breaches through internal or external reporting channels or through public disclosure, as well as to those who submit reports to competent national or European Union authorities, provided that, at the time of reporting, they had reasonable grounds to believe that the information reported was true and fell within the scope of this Policy.

Furthermore, throughout the process of receiving and handling reports, the Company shall not disclose personal data or any information that could directly or indirectly lead to the identification of either the reporting person or the reported person. The identity of such individuals shall be treated as strictly confidential in accordance with Articles 14 and 21 of Law 4990/2022.

The Company shall implement appropriate technical and organizational measures, including pseudonymization techniques where applicable, to ensure the confidentiality and security of information received and processed under this Policy.

The identity of the reporting person, the reported person, or any third party referred to in a report may only be disclosed where required by national or European Union law in the context of investigations conducted by competent authorities or judicial proceedings, or where necessary to safeguard the rights of defense of the individuals concerned.

Any such disclosure shall be preceded by written notification to the affected individual unless such notification jeopardizes ongoing investigations or judicial proceedings.

Reported persons shall have access to all legal remedies and procedural safeguards provided by applicable law and shall enjoy the right to a fair trial, including:

- The right to an effective remedy before an impartial tribunal
- The presumption of innocence
- The right of defense
- The right to be heard
- The right to access their case file,

as provided under Article 21(2) of Law 4990/2022.

Accordingly, the Company fully recognizes the right of reported persons to be informed of reports submitted against them and to present their views before the competent Company bodies during the internal investigation process, provided that such notification does not jeopardize the effective investigation of the matter.

9. PROTECTION AGAINST RETALIATION

The Company is committed to providing full protection against retaliation to individuals who submit internal or external reports or make public disclosures, whether identified or anonymous and subsequently identified.

For the purposes of this Policy, retaliation means any direct or indirect act or omission occurring in a work-related context that causes or may cause unjustified harm to the reporting person or places them at a disadvantage because of having submitted a report or made a public disclosure.

Where a reporting person believes that retaliation is threatened or has occurred, they may submit a report to the RRFO and/or to the Head of Human Resources.

Any retaliatory measure imposed against a reporting person shall be considered null and void.

Furthermore, a reporting person who has suffered retaliation shall be entitled to:

- Full compensation for any damages suffered
- Restoration of their position and rights to the status that existed prior to the retaliatory action.

Protection against retaliation shall not apply where a person knowingly submits a false, misleading, or malicious report.

In such cases, the individual may be subject to disciplinary measures relating to their employment relationship, including termination of employment, without prejudice to any civil, administrative, or criminal liabilities that may arise under applicable law.

10. RECORD KEEPING

The Company shall maintain a secure record of all reports submitted under this Policy, subject at all times to applicable confidentiality requirements.

12. EXTERNAL REPORTING TO THE NATIONAL TRANSPARENCY AUTHORITY (NTA)

The Company encourages individuals to use the internal reporting channels established under this Policy as the primary means of reporting concerns.
